

MAINE MARITIME ACADEMY

A College of Engineering, Management, Science, and Transportation

Adjunct Faculty Position – Undergraduate Program: LO432 – Strategic Supply Chain Management

POSITION OVERVIEW

Adjunct faculty are non-permanent, temporary faculty who are hired on a semester-by-semester basis. This opening is expected to teach a 3-credit hours course(s) in the Fall 2025 Semester from late August to mid-December. Most recent schedule is for Tuesdays and Thursdays, early morning (subject to change). This is an undergraduate level in-person course taught on the MMA campus in Castine, Maine. The successful candidate will develop and deliver course material utilizing a variety of interactive tools and discussions.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The study of logistics and supply chain potential future shifts and the drivers for those changes. Explores current events in supply chain, structural issues, and development of future direction, options and alternatives with roles that current students may play in that environment including inter-firm logistics integration, planning, sourcing, production, order management, distribution, administration, and customer relations that can be strategically harnessed to leverage strategic competitive advantage across multiple companies. Includes integrated supply chain metrics and performance measurement. The case method will be used to provide experience in integrating material from this and prior courses in the International Business and Logistics program.
