Schooner Bowdoin

The Schooner Bowdoin is known for its arctic exploration. Above is the Bowdoin off the coast of Greenland.

Captain Mac and his wife Miriam

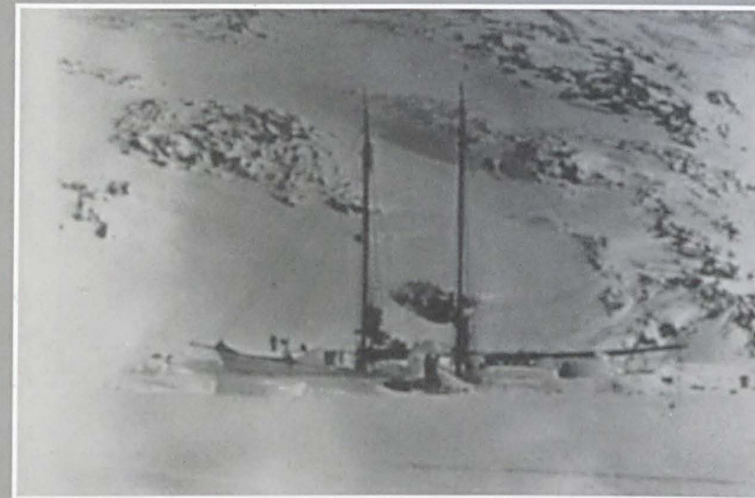

In 1991 the Bowdoin returned to the arctic with students and scientists aboard.

Donald MacMillan dreamed of building a vessel that would be dedicated to researching the Arctic. In 1921, the Schooner Bowdoin was built in East Boothbay, Maine by the Hodgdon Brothers Shipyard. She was designed by William Hand to handle the harsh Arctic ice. Bowdoin is an 88-foot knock-about schooner built of wood with a hull design that allows her to rise above the ice rather than fighting its crushing pressure. MacMillan sailed as captain of Bowdoin for 35 years, visiting Greenland, Labrador, and Baffin Island twenty-six times.

The Schooner Bowdoin came to Maine Maritime Academy in 1988 as a sail training vessel. She returned to Greenland in 1991 and again in 1994. During these trips she carried students and teachers who would do research while learning the art of sailing. During the fall Bowdoin is used in training students within the nautical science, ocean studies, and small vessel operations programs. She also does day sails for the community. This past July Bowdoin participated in the Constitution's Bicentennial Salute. Aboard were ten trainees of all ages, as well as six crew members. The Schooner Bowdoin acts as a sailing ambassador for Maine Maritime Academy and is appreciated by students of all majors alike.

We are happy to dedicate the 1999 Trick's End Yearbook to the Schooner Bowdoin.

Bowdoin has been frozen into the ice on four occasions in North Greenland, as shown to the right.

The Schooner Bowdoin's home is now in Cas-tine harbor, where it is used by Maine Mari-time Academy as a sail training vessel. The Schooner Bow-doin is a floating classroom for many students.

Captain Elliot Rappaport has worked aboard Bowdoin for the past seven years. He visited the Arctic first in 1991 as a mate, and again in 1994 as skipper.

TO THE CLASS OF 1999:

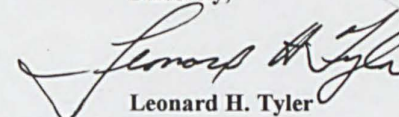

Congratulations! You have reached a great milestone in your life and you should be proud of your achievements.

As you graduate and enter your professional careers, there will be more competition and greater demands placed on you than any other graduating class in recent history. The world is changing and is growing more complex and subject to massive changes that seem to occur with blinding speed. The job market is no longer local, regional, or national. We now participate in a global market place.

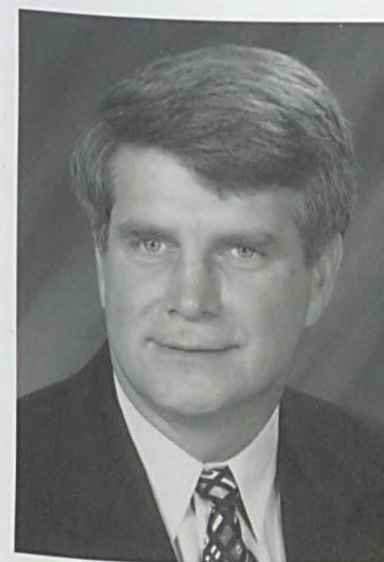

To you graduates, this means challenge, new demands for leadership, and opportunities to put your unique education to good use. We at Maine Maritime Academy are confident that you have the skills and the ambition to succeed in this new world order, both as professionals and as public-spirited citizens. This college has a proud tradition of public service, as evidenced by our many graduates who have served in the U.S. - flag merchant marine, in the armed forces, in government and in other capacities at national, state, and local levels.

The faculty and staff join me in wishing you success and happiness in all of your future endeavors.

Sincerely,

Leonard H. Tyler

TO THE CLASS OF 1999:

Congratulations and a very large THANK YOU for making this one of the Regiment's best years ever, and certainly my best year as your Commandant.

I have seen leadership from this class that I didn't experience in my years as a midshipman at the US Naval Academy or during my several years as an instructor in the NROTC program. Every one of your undertakings was accomplished with pride and enthusiasm. This is not to say that you didn't make mistakes. But when you did, you learned from them, made the necessary corrections and got the job done. No commander, boss or supervisor could ask for more.

Baltic Cruise 1998 was one of the most successful cruises in the Academy's history. From the sports competition at the Estonian Maritime Academy to the celebration of Kiel Week you spread good will and promoted the good name of your academy. Again this is a direct reflection of your dedication and commitment to excellence which has characterized your tenure at MMA.

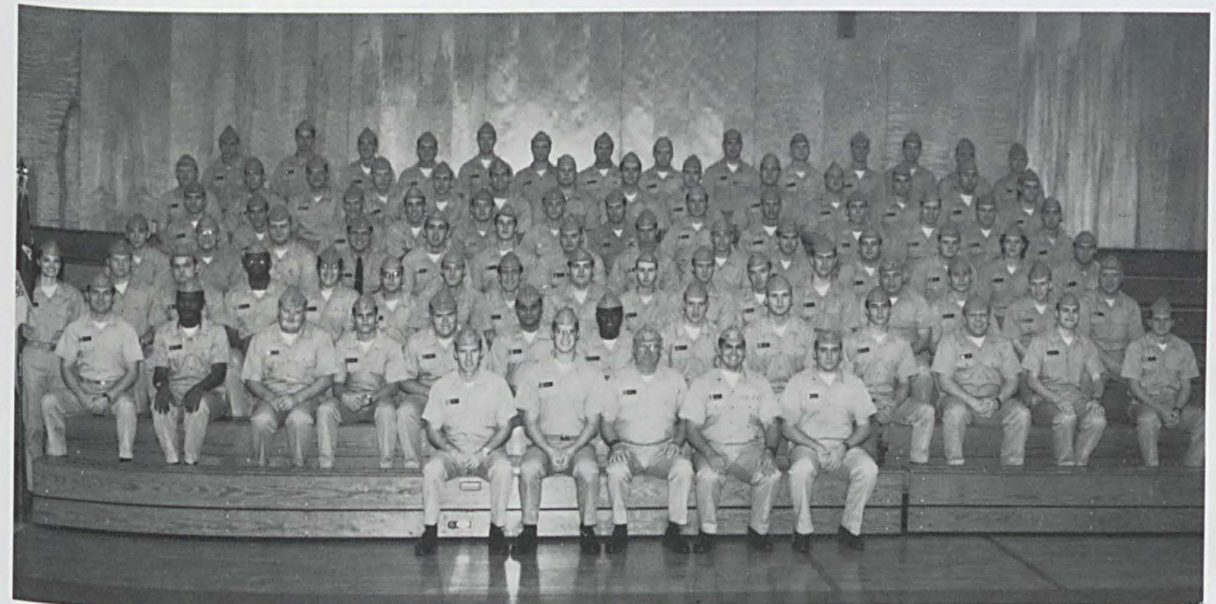

CDR Frost, LT Lebel, LT Henderson, Vic Pinkham, CAPT Wade, Chief Young and all of the ship's officers join me in wishing each of you success and happiness as you embark on your new careers. We will miss you.

BRAVO ZULU and OOH RAH !!!

The Marine Corps Silent Drill Platoon performs at Homecoming

The NROTC Battalion saw an action-packed year! The activities began in August with the orientation of the new 4/C Midshipmen. Throughout the year, the Battalion hosted such events as a POW/MIA Day formation, a visit from the Marine Corps Silent Drill Platoon, and a special Veterans Day Vigil. The Navy and Marine Corps birthdays were celebrated with a festive ball featuring guest Captain Wayne Peters, and dinner and dancing for all. The Battalion competed inter-collegiately this year in the Holy Cross Basketball Tournament, as well as the Cornell and Villanova University Drill, Basketball, and Military Excellence Competitions. The year ended with an Awards Dinner and the always entertaining "Dining In" night.

Having been academically, physically, and professionally challenged for four years, the 1/C Midshipmen now face service in the world's finest Navy and Marine Corps, while the underclassmen continue on towards commission.

When I was about 12 years old I realized the odds of becoming an astronaut were slim. That's when I decided I wanted to work on the water when I got older. At that point I had no idea that I would have to go to school 3,500 miles away in Maine to achieve my goal. Now we're graduating and looking for jobs. When I got here my freshman year, that seemed so far away.

I do have to give credit to the Regiment. The only thing that it did was pull us together as a class our freshman year. We all had a common enemy. The last 4 years have been an interesting experience. I've gained a lot of good memories and a lot of bad memories. I've had a lot of good times with friends in some ports that I never thought I would get a chance to visit. I can usually even think of some funny or just plain stupid thing about the bad memories that make me chuckle.

Even though I hate to admit it, I will miss this place. Good luck to everyone on the rest of your lives, and I hope I'll see you again in some port.

Chad and the family out in the woods of Washington!

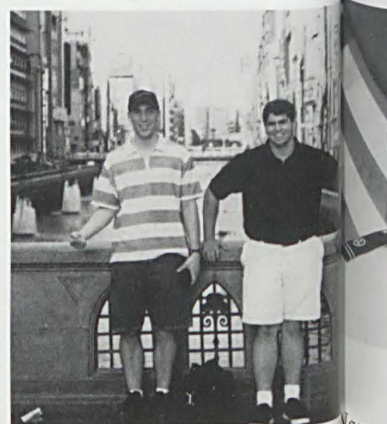

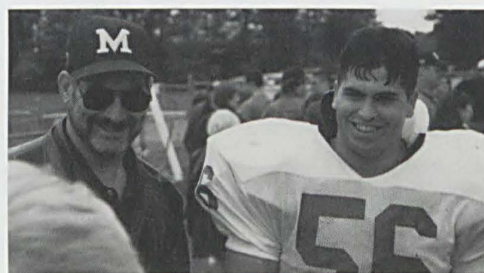

I had to go out of state, but boy did I find a keeper!

When one comes from away, he needs to ask himself two questions. 1) "Can I make it here?" and 2) "Where is the PARTY!!!!" Well, I have been able to answer the first question and some weekends have either contributed to or have been able to answer the second. But for the most part, this place has been the best thing that I could have done for myself--thanks to everyone. All I have to ask those that are left is:

"Where are all the women that I was promised?"

To My Father: You have been there for me through

Freshman Cruise on the Patriot State

The Seniors!!

To my Family:

I remember it like yesterday, not so long ago. Words spoken by my parents, "come on our baby girl, I fret a bit, but I think it's time to go." Silence spoke a thousand words from Canton to Castine, and when it came time to say goodbye, my heart dropped to my knees. As the years went on I grew somehow, in intellect and dreams. I found my future imbedded in the oceans, coasts to seas. To my parents then,
I say thanks for amending to my indifferences. For supporting me through time unsaid, for encouraging me to this day of graduation.
I passed my test in the lion's den. To my sisters then, here's to us.
We've made it once again. It goes to show that the "Dyke's Disposition" grows stronger through the years. Here's to us for the girls we once were and the women that we've become. To my nephews Colby and Tyler, may all your dreams come true? And whether I am near or far, remember, Auntie Crissy loves both of you.

No badge doth he wear, not a bang in his hair,
not an eyeglass to mark his career.
But we know at a glance, by the grease on his pants,
that he is a "marine engineer."

And tis he that we toast, for he sticks to his post, tho the captain may bully and swear.
And the blame and the work, he stands like a Turk,
of the credit, he never gets a share.

No uniform gay, with brass buttons galore,
marks his rank, nor an epaulet fine.
But he takes a good wash ere he goes upon shore,
and he looks like the boat of the line.

And he is the man whom you all like to know,
who shrinks not from danger or death.
None braver then he, none could happier be,
and a better man never drew breath.

When a boat is on time, then a smile most sublime, makes the captain look jolly and gay.
And he stretches a notch as he looks at his watch, and says, Well, I made time today!

But he gets into port with another retort,
when they say, "You are late sir, we fear."
And he looks mad as a hatter if asked,
"What's the matter?" and growls, "Ask the engineer."

The sound of his engines is music to him,
its care to his heart ever dear.
And put this in your grip, the success of the trip, depends on the marine engineer!

"Those who go down to the sea in ships,
Who do business on great waters;
They have seen the works of the Lord,
And his wonders in the deep.
For he spoke and raised up a stormy wind,
Which lifted up the waves of the sea,
They rose up to the Heavens, they went down to the depths;
Their soul melted away in their misery.
They reeled and staggered like a drunken man,
And were at their wits end.
Then they cried to the Lord in their distress...
...And he brought them out of their trouble.
He caused the storm to be still,
So that the waves of the sea were hushed.
So he guided them to their desired haven."

"I'd paint that ship if I were you!"

A Prayer
Oh' Lord your sea is so great and our ships are so small.
In Your mercy strengthen us to fulfill our call.
Your power Lord is awesome to save and to destroy.
Lead us Lord to safety and to heavens eternal joy.

Yarn of a former Jolly Roger

We were schooner rigged and rakish with a long and lithesome hull and we flew the pretty colors of the cross bones and the skull We'd a long black gun amidships like a well conducted ship and we'd each a brace of pistols and a cutlass at the hip. It's a fact which tells against us and a thing to be deplored but we chased the goodly merchantmen and laid their ships aboard Then the dead men filled the scuppers and the wounded fouled the chains The paint work was a spatter-dashed with other people's brains we robbed her and we looted her and we scuttled her till she sank then the pale survivors left us by medium of the plank and when the blood was washed away and we'd little else to do We'd dance a quiet hornpipe as the old salts taught us to Oh the fiddle on the fo'c'sle and slapping naked souls the genial down the middle jake and curtsey when she rolls and the look out not a lookin' and his pipe bowl glowing red Oh the quidding pig-tailed pirates and the pretty pranks we played have long since been put to rest by the naughty board of trade the schooners and their crews are laid away to rest and a little south the sun sets in the islands of the blest.

To the past I look,
Seeing friends fade, and times forgotten.
The bad times making us stronger,
And the good making it worth doing.

There are too many to thank Too many that believed when I did not.
Friends that would not let go,
And always caught me when I fell.

They taught of life and love
And with their help I look to the future
With a tear in my eyes, for the days gone by,
And a prayer in my heart for those left behind.

First I would like to thank my parents for being supportive and giving me the opportunity to go to college. I would also like to thank the rest of my family and all the other people who have influenced my life.

Four years ago I had to make a decision. Not really knowing what I was getting into, I ended up in Castine. Two years into this journey I had serious doubts if this is really what I wanted to do. Being in the position I am in now, I'm glad I didn't give up on Maine Maritime.

Even though there were times I wished I would have gone to a bigger college with more people and more things to do, I would never want to give up on friends I've made here. We all went through a lot together. Now all of us have a strong drive to succeed, which all of us will do. All the graduates of the Class of '99 have a future with as many endless possibilities as the millennium. I'm proud to be part of the 1999 graduation class from Maine Maritime Academy.

From: Your Family

Dear Rick:

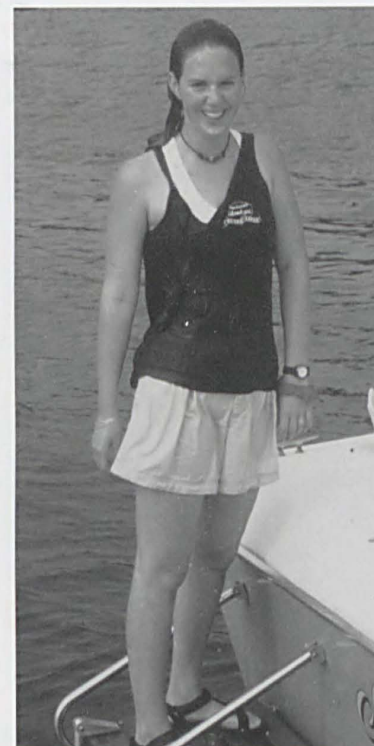

Congratulations!
Again, you make us proud.

Your loving family,
Marly, Mick, Mike, Kathleen, Mom and Dad

To our dearest Aimee,

It seems like yesterday that you were starting nursery school, now you're graduating from college. You have always filled our hearts with love and pride. No parents could ever be prouder of their child than we have always been of you. Now it's time for you to throw off the bowlines, catch the trade winds in your sails and explore. But always know that there is a safe harbor waiting for you at home.

Illusion

The madcap courtiers flying around the room, the slick floor shining below their pounding heels,
and the mirror-bright glass walls
keeping me outside.

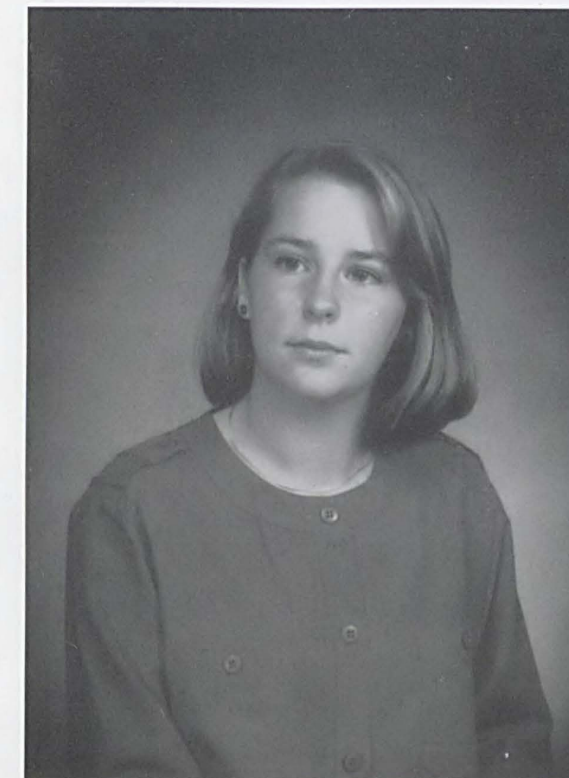

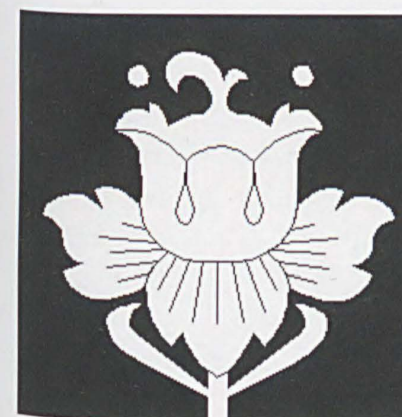

Skirts billowing high, dancing their own seductive dance to an inner rhythm.
Hands, legs, arms, bodies meeting, touching, exploring carelessly and I am watching, waiting for a door to let me in.

Exhilarated, enticing laughter fuels desire,
quenches thirst.
A stroke, a caress and there it stops as all begin to tire and I look for a window to get me in.

Cadence slows, lights dim, touches become embraces and thoughts go to him.
The walls seem to dissolve in this dreamy reverence and I get closer, only to be rewarded with pain.

For my Brother,

Life is an experience--spent lingering in selfishness and abiding in a crest of aggressive passion.

Normally we demand the stiff breath of regularity, while fooling ourselves to thinking life isn't a Dream full of unending change. (Giving birth to experience.)

Congratulations. For living the dream!

Jennifer,

We have watched you grow into a fine young adult. If you weren't related we would still want you as a Best Friend.

Love,
Mom, Dad, Michael, and Grandma

*Congratulations Brendan, you've made us very proud.
love dad, mom. Tom and Martin.*

Dale,
We are very proud of you and all that you have accomplished. We wish you continued success and happiness always.

Love you!

1998 Division Champions !!!

The Mariners finished the 1998 campaign with a flurry winning the Red Division Championship of the NEFC. Five seniors will leave the team this year and will be hard to replace.

Co-Captain Rob Cody, a four year All-Conference performer for the Mariners earned the NEFC's highest honor being named "Defensive Player of the Year." He was also named first team All-New England defensive lineman by the New England Football Writers and was listed as an All-ECAC performer. Rob earned his gold watch, Maine Maritime's highest athletic award, as a four year letterman.

Co-captain Keith Beaulieu was a three year letterman. He leaves Maine Maritime as its all-time leading interceptor having picked off a record eight as a junior and a career record 13 overall. Keith was also named to the All-NEFC second team.

Linebacker Lance Durgan distinguished himself as a three year starter and led the team in tackles his junior year. He accumulated 158 tackles and intercepted three passes. Lance also served as Commander of Alpha Company in the Regiment of Midshipmen.

Kevin Cross finished his second season at offensive guard and started seven games for the Mariners. He has also been elected captain of the 1999 Lacrosse team.

Clarence Young played football for the first time this season and recorded a team-high eight sacks from his defensive end position. He earned second team All-Conference honors and may return for the 1999 season as a graduate student.

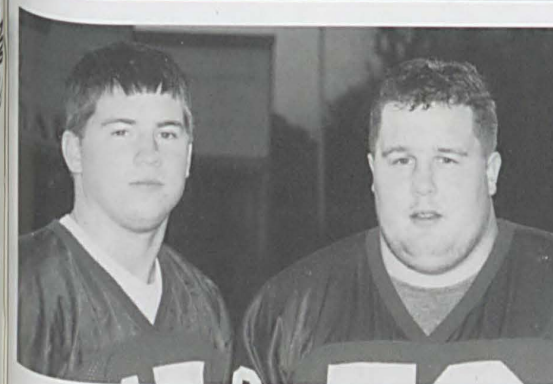

Several underclassmen distinguished themselves this season with All-Conference honors. Record-setting tailback Steve Tardif continued his progress in his junior campaign earning Hewlett-Packard and Hansen Football Gazette All-American honors. He finishing 5th in the nation in all-purpose yards and 7th in rushing. Steve was also named to the All-ECAC and All-NEFC teams. Junior offensive center Quentin Stewart was named first team All-Conference. Junior offensive tackle Rob Hill and junior defensive back Erik McDaniel were listed as a second team All-Conference selections.

School records were set for most interceptions in a game (6) in the win over Fitchburg State and in a season with 24. The team set a new standard for interception return yards in a season with 340. Also, the school record for most quarterback sacks in a game (12) was reached. Steve Tardif tied the record for most 200-yard games in a season with five. Erik McDaniel also tied the standard for most interception in a game with three and finished the season ranked 17th in the nation with a total of seven for the season.

McDaniel and Tardif have been named captains for the 1999 season.

Members: Jennifer Brokaw, Victoria Deakin, Alaina Hanlon, Jody Katrein, Kimberly Krecek, Robin Merrill, Kristi Napoli, and Heather Robertson

The 1998 Lady Mariner roster included eight team members, led by Senior Captain Jody Katrein. The team was competitive in all the team meets, but the highlight for the season was the team's victory defending their 1997 North Atlantic Women's Conference Championship. The team was paced by Kimberly Krecek (1st) and Jody Katrein (5th), but all team members had a part in this victory.

Men's Cross Country

The 1998 Mariner roster included twenty team members, led by Senior Co-Captains Joel Parker and Yannick Bernier. The team was competitive in all team meets and the highlights for the season included the team's victory at the St. Joseph's College Invitational and winning MMA's first ever Maine Athletic Conference Championship in any sport. The team finished second in the Dirigo Cup Series, and freshmen Christopher Towle, Justin Lewis, and Brent Berg were named to the Dirigo All Star Team. This is the third consecutive year that two or more Mariners were named to the seven member All Star team.

Seniors Jody Katrein and Yannick Bernier strut their stuff!

Lacrosse

Heading into the 1999 season under the tutelage of second-year coach Roger Casciani, the Mariners are looking to continue the improvement of the past years. A 3-3 record in 1998, and a second-place finish in the '98 Mariner Tournament, has built a team which will be a force to reckon with.

The "Death Squad" defense, led by seniors Brian Orme and Dale Rogers, has been shore up by the addition of David Buehne and Alex Carlin. They helped to protect Craig Fortin in the cage, where he has moved in order to fill the vacancy left by the graduating All-World Goalie" Randall Bish. The team had two distinct personalities as captains this year. Intense Justin Thone leads the Middies for the Varsity including Bartlett and Jimmy D., while the "Remedial Squad" is led by a more relaxed Kevin Cross. A strong freshman and sophomore class has really given the team depth. The attack is rich with younger players like Johnny Macisso, Tom Zysk, and Scott "Lefty" Driscoll.

'99 Mariner Lacrosse...Trample the weak, and hurdle the dead.

Women's Basketball

The 1997-98 season ended with a North Atlantic Women's Conference Championship, and all seven players returned to the 1998-99 squad to repeat that feat. Tri-captains Robin Merrill, Vanessa LeBlond, and Lindsay Smith have led their teammates into another potentially outstanding season. Stacey Ryan, Monica Locke, Vicki Jones, and Emily Pratt round out the returnees, who are joined by senior Jessica Tebbetts (who took last year off), and freshmen Rachel Merrill and Laura Folsom.

At the halfway point of the season, the Lady Mariners had rattled off six wins and lost just two contests. Four of those wins were on the Hoop Deck, and all came in one week. It was a tremendous effort. As the 1999 half of the season begins, the team looks forward to continuing where they left off. However, most importantly, they look forward to the goal of defending the NAWC Championship on their home court.

The Lady Mariners at work!

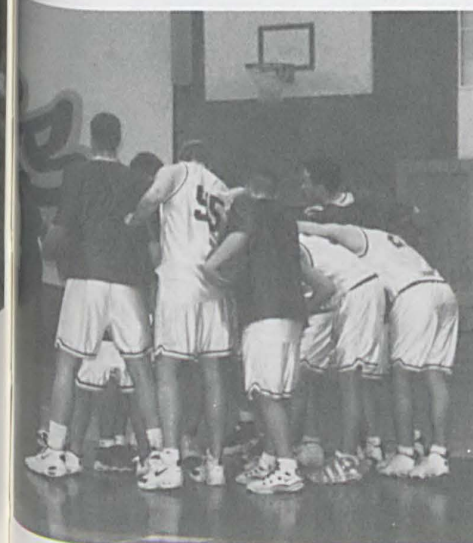

Future Lady Mariner!

Men's Basketball

Members: Ryan Miller, Josh Plamondon, Seth Danner, Ken Buttery, Ryan Garland, Corey Streams, Peter Pitula, T.J. Berube, Nate LaChance, Matt Ketchen, Scott Colby, Matt McNealy, and Eric Otenti. Chris Murphy, Head Coach; Tony Mottola, Assistant Coach.

The 1998-99 season was one of new challenges for the Mariners. As first year members in the Maine Athletic Conference (MAC), perennial regional powerhouses such as Husson College and St. Joseph's College were added to an already difficult schedule. Despite having only one senior on the team and playing several freshmen in key roles, the Mariners responded well by winning several conference games and by setting many team and individual records.

Sailing

This year's varsity team has accomplished many great things. The coed and women's teams, coached by Butch Minson and Nathan Priester, grew dramatically with more experience. Though the team did not grow in size, each member grew in his or her own strength and ability to sail. Using each other as teaching tools, the team grew together to perform better. Among the seasons high points were the wins at Wellahan-Casco Bay Cup @ USM, True North's 2 and 4 @ MMA, and The NewEngland Series 5 @ UNH.

This year's shield team, coached by Mike Patterson, gained experience as well, becoming a strong team.

The summer offshore team sailed numerous races on Madcap along the North Atlantic seaboard. In addition to sailing to better our techniques, we sail to have fun and to enjoy the sport. Capsizing drill and day of fun sailing help to break up the rigorous routine.

IMOS 2000 WIN is a software package for organizing and managing vessel operating companies. IMOS 2000 establishes an advanced "HOW TO" integrated framework which warrants high management standards and creates an efficient, cost effective and pro-active operating environment.

IMOS 2000 is modular and can span the entire organization, including regional offices and the vessels. The modules include Chartering, Operations Planning, Voyage Monitoring, Freight Billing, Demurrage, Port Cost Management, Crew Management, Purchasing and Onboard vessel modules. The modules link together so that information is disseminated immediately and transparently to all affected parties without re-entry.

In today's market conditions, vessel operation decision making requires the collection and analysis of a multitude of 'current' information. IMOS 2000 provides readily current information helping management make informed and less risky decisions. Furthermore, by standardizing the office functions, it achieves a consistent, stable operating environment.
